RUM CRISIS PUT UP TO HARDING

UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE IS OPENED WITH SPEECH BY HARDING

Points Out Important Duties Confronting Conferees.

EXPECTED TO AID WORLD

Help Must Come Thru Reorganization, President Says.

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — The national unemployment conference which the administration hopes will evolve means of putting the nation's involuntary idle back to work, was formally opened here today by President Harding.

Addressing the half hundred industrial, economic and labor leaders comprising the conference, the president described the present industrial depression as "a war inheritance throughout the world" for which, as applied to the United States, he added, he "would have little enthusiasm for any proposed relief which seeks either palliation or tonic from the public treasury."

Relief was expressed by the president that the results of the conference would extend beyond the borders of the United States and that the delegates in their deliberations would be performing "a service to the world."

"Fundamentally sound, financially sound, industrially unimpaired, commercially consistent and politically unafraid," the president asserted, "there ought to be work for everybody in the United States who chooses to work, and our condition at home and our place in the world depends on everybody going to work and pursuing it with that patriotism and devotion which make for a fortunate and happy people."

The president declared that "the open, sure and onward way" to rid the nation of the war's aftermath of depression involved "liquidation, reorganization, readjustment, re-establishment, taking account of things done, and sober contemplation of things to be done." Any other way, he added, was only hugging a delusion.

The delegates were told by Mr. Harding that they had not been invited into the conference "to solve the long controverted problems of the Hoover, whom he designated as chairman of the conference, as chairman of the conference, would lay before them the program of discussions."

In telling the conference members that they were destined to perform a world service, the president quoted "a distinguished foreigner" as having recently declared:

"Mr. President our people are deeply interested in the American conference on unemployment because our problem is akin to your own. We are seeking relief in the United States will be an added signal of hope from America to us and other peoples who are much depressed."

"That remark of a distinguished foreigner emphasized our responsibility," the president added. "If it be true that no citizen is without example to some one among his fellows, which I believe to be everlasting truth, then nations, great and small, are influencing others in all they do."

"The industrial depression which we are feeling is a war inheritance throughout the world. We saw humanity stressed in that production which is impelled by nations desperate in self-preservation. . . . From such a test there is inevitable reaction. . . . With the world involved there is no escape for any of the world from the ravages of depression. The we suffered less than many of those with whom we were associated and less than any of those against whom we contended. It was inevitable that we have experienced the aftermath and come to know depression before we could become normal again."

KNOWLEDGE FOR PUBLIC
"Liquidation, reorganization, readjustment, re-establishment, taking account of things done and sober contemplation of things to be done, the finding of firm ground and the open, sure and onward way—all these are or that, or this international relationship that, only hurs the delusion, when reason is needed for a safe counsel."

"You have been summoned to counsel all America to apply your knowledge and your experience in relieving a condition which concerns all America."

The president further told the conference, "Specifically you are to deal with unemployment, to suggest a way to repelling in the arterial circulation the very life blood of the republic."

PLAN CELEBRATION

"HOT DOGS" WILL DECIDE TOWN'S RACE FOR MAYOR

CLEVELAND — (By United Press) — "Hot dogs" have entered politics in Lakewood, elite suburb of this city. In fact, the stand which the citizens take on weiners will decide the coming election for mayor.

The trouble all started in the Lakewood high school, but has spread like a virulent case of measles. Several pupils have been expelled by the school authorities for violating a rule which forbids leaving the school premises at noon or recess for a meal.

"Hot dogs" served in the school cafeteria, but cost nine cents while just across the street, in the only eating place for blocks, they may be bought for seven cents.

Helen Fair, 17, was among the expelled, but was reinstated when her father threatened to bring suit.

Charles Irwin, 16, has not fared so well, but his parents are getting together votes and say that a new town regime will be the result.

MAYOR FAILS TO NAME AUDITOR

Holds Up Rupert's Resignation, Seeking Successor.

NO ONE APPLIES FOR JOB

Is Choicest Plum Mayor Has Had To Bestow.

Successor to David L. Rupert, city auditor, who resigned Saturday, had not been selected Monday by Mayor Frank A. Burkhardt. The resignation was a surprise to the chief executive, he stated.

"The position is a very important one," Burkhardt declared, "and especially so at this time. I haven't anyone in mind for the position."

The mayor said he expected to use a great deal of deliberation in making a selection for the vacancy. One of the great difficulties will be to find someone at liberty to take the office for a three months' period. No applications have been received for the position to date, it was said, although there are several who may get after it.

It may be that council will take a hand in the appointment, if it has power to do so.

Rupert's resignation had not been accepted Monday by the mayor, who stated, however, that he undoubtedly will do so. He intimated that he desired to hold Rupert until his successor has been decided upon.

Salary for the office and secretary of the sinking fund is $2,580. Making the appointment will be the choicest plum that Mayor Burkhardt has had to bestow since assuming office.

PLAN TO AID LIMA BLIND PEOPLE

Student Members, to Leave Tuesday, Given Farewell.

Welfare Association for the Blind, Chapter 11, met Sunday afternoon with Miss Anna Moore, 742 W. North-st. The assembly was held as a farewell to the student members who will leave Tuesday for Columbus, to attend the State School for the Blind.

The following program was given: Address to the student members, W. A. Thomas, of Gomer, state president; song, "All for You," Miss Pearl Jones, of Columbus; piano solo, "Fifteen Minutes," by Fidler, Miss Nellie Rigdon, of Lima; song, "Life's Lesson," Miss Kathryn Flannery; piano duet, Miss Helen Mechley and Miss Ruth Rankin, both of Lima.

Report of the Youngstown convention held from September 4-9, was given by John Fair.

Mrs. Palmer, of Cleveland, foremost woman in work for the blind in the United States reported upon legislation recently enacted covering education of civilian blind, its purpose being to do for all blind citizens what has been attempted for men blinded during the service in the world war. It provides that the state pay one-half and the federal government one-half of the cost of vocational education; the government to recommend the best schools in the line chosen. Rooms and board will be provided by the students.

The Cleveland society reported that 52 occupations were opened to the blind students in Cleveland where more efforts have been made for the blind than anywhere in the country. One hundred blind are employed in industries in Cleveland.

PENNSY CLAIMS RIGHT TO DEAL WITH EMPLOYEES

CHICAGO — Refusal of the Pennsylvania railroad to negotiate further with the United States railroad labor board over the shop crafts election dispute was expected today when an oral hearing before the board is scheduled.

Samuel Pea, president of the railroad, in a letter to the board, made public last night, asserted the right of the carrier to deal with its own employees without the intervention of individuals or organizations whose manifest object is the denial of the fundamental right of employer and employee to deal in the first instance directly with each other respecting wages and working conditions in which they alone are directly interested.

The company, on August 21, asked the board to set aside its decision calling for a new election of shop craft committee to negotiate with the carrier. The board granted the company's request but limited the hearing to certain points.

MINERS LINE UP FOR STRIKE QUESTION TEST

INDIANAPOLIS. — Both factions among delegates to the convention of the United Mine Workers of America lined up today for the final test of strength in the two Kansas strike cases, the vote being to decide whether Alexander Howat, president of the Kansas district, would be directed to order strikers back to work at the Dean and Resiance mines.

Bitter debate was in prospect when the convention resumed consideration of the cases, the anti-administration element contending Howat's opposition to ordering the men back to work was justified because the operators sought to change working conditions. Administration delegates supporting President John L. Lewis, denied this contention, asserting that the issue was whether the union required its own men to fulfill their contracts.

POLISH ALLIANCE MEETS

TOLEDO. — The twenty-third tri-annual convention of the Polish National Alliance opened here today with more than seven hundred delegates from nearly every state in the Union in attendance. A number of distinguished visitors from Poland also are present.

The conferences will continue through the week.

MAKE A MILLION IN OIL GAME! SHOE CLERK WHO DID TELLS HOW

FORT WORTH, Texas.—Ed Ramsey can tell you how to make a million or so in oil.

"Start at the ground and work up," says Ramsey.

Sounds like a Chesterton paradox, when oil well are dug, doesn't it? But then Ramsey used to be a shoe clerk, so coming from him the advice isn't altogether unnatural.

Anthony Ramsey, a millionaire now in fact, a multimillionaire, and six years ago he was working for $18 a week in an Aldmore shoe store.

He quit his job when the oil boom hit southern Oklahoma. His first job was as a roustabout at $1.50 a day, but he learned something. Then he became a tool dresser and a driller, and learned more things.

His first investment was a winner—an oil lease in Kansas.

His brother, W. R. Ramsey, joined him in a purchase in the Cement field in Caddo, Oklahoma. Recently they sold part of their holdings there for $1,500,000.

Not long ago they disposed of holdings in Louisiana for $2,000,000 in Picher, Carson and Hallcocks, Texas, they now have 17,000 acres of land under lease; in Oklahoma, Texas, they have 60,000 acres under lease.

They have other holdings in several states, including Kansas, Arkansas, Kentucky and California.

"We rely very much on geology," says Ramsey. "I believe a friend was right when he said, 'Ninety per cent of wells drilled on geological structure, and dry holes, but 95 per cent of the wells are found on geology.'"

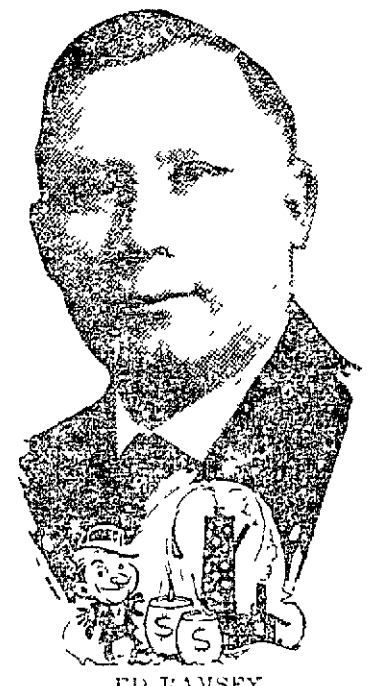

The Ramsey, don't sell oil stock—and their surplus capital they invest in public bonds.

"They know all the twists and turns in the oil business," likewise all the books and tricks.

A short time ago Ramsey saved an eastern capitalist from being stung on a wild oil well by dropping a pebble into the well. He proved it was only 100 feet down to salt water instead of 1,000 feet to salt water and oil as the driller had stated.

Then he tested the oil smeared on the cork and discovered that it was refined oil and not crude oil.

P. S.—And, eds, Ed Ramsey is handsome, only 32, and still single.

CHIEF FIRED UPON

Assassination of Polish President Is Attempted.

LEMBURG. — (By Associated Press). — General Joseph Pilsudski, president of the Polish republic, narrowly escaped death by assassination here last night. He was entering an automobile in city hall square on his way to a theatre after attending a banquet in his honor, when three shots were fired at him.

General Pilsudski was not injured, but Count Grabowski, who was accompanying him, was wounded in the leg.

The president directed his chauffeur to drive to a hospital and after being assured that Count Grabowski was not seriously injured, insisted on going to the theatre as he had intended. He was enthusiastically cheered by the audience when he entered.

The would-be assassin attempted suicide but was arrested before he could end his own life.

The lamp posts around the square are taller than those on Main and High-sts and are arranged so as to throw the light toward the center of the square.

KILLS TWO TO WIN WIFE'S LOVE

Arkansas Man, However, Is Spurned by His Mate

MUST DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Doomed Husband, Yarns Only For Woman's Forgiveness.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(By N. E. A. Service). —Amos Ratliff will go to the death chair here Sept. 30 for committing two successive murders to win a woman.

Strangely, the woman was his wife. The first person he murdered was a man whom he regarded as a rival for his wife's affection.

The second person he murdered was a woman whom he plotted to rob in order to buy presents for his wife. Each time he failed in his object. The wife for whom he shed a man's blood and a woman's blood has lost all affection for him.

"I haven't seen him since he left Eureka Springs," she says. "I haven't written to him."

"And I don't intend to say goodbye to him at the penitentiary."

"All I want is to forget him."

"I don't feel that I am responsible for his actions."

"He was jealous—and violent."

"He crushed the love he claimed for his own."

"When everything's all over—why, then I can start anew."

Ratliff does not repine over the fate in store for him.

"If I have regret because he lost the woman whom he loved to the point of mad jealousy, he stifles it."

"I lost," he mutters to himself; "I lost—that's all." And then, a half-suppressed sob, "Cora—Cora!"

Ratliff is a mountaineer of the Arkansas rough country. He's only 25. Three years ago he first violated the law—committed a robbery to get pretty things for his wife. For this he was sent to the penitentiary.

After he was discharged, he returned unexpectedly to his home in Carroll county, and met his wife dying with another man.

Ratliff shot the man on sight. His wife fled from him.

He was out on bail, awaiting trial for the offense, when he got the idea that if he only could get money, he could win his wife back with fine gifts.

So Ratliff set out to rob Miss Lottie Frazier, a spinster, who was reported to have $10,000 concealed on her premises.

He killed her in the act—and was captured, tried and convicted.

Rev. Steinhauer, a missionary, labored long hours with Ratliff, trying to win him to civilization.

Ratliff at first was obdurate, then despairing.

But now he says: "Tell the boys nothing good can come of evil. The wages of sin are death."

"I want Cora to forgive me—even if she can't love me."

GRAND JURY GOES INTO ACTION

Three-Day Session Anticipated by Prosecuting Attorney.

Forty cases, involving the calling of more than 100 witnesses before the Allen-co grand jury, will compel the investigating body to be in session three days, according to Prosecuting Attorney E. T. Lippincott.

A report may not be expected before the latter part of the week. The few secret indictments which will be returned will be for non-support of children or abandonment of parents, Lippincott says.

For the first time in many sessions there was a lack of sensational cases. Cases for investigation are largely made up of those from police court and the two justice courts of Lima.

Clarence Weger and William Roth, both of Delphos, and Myrl Copeland, formerly of Lima, but who has now moved out of the state, were excused from jury service Monday, when the grand jury convened.

Substituting were Lew Hunter, Herbert Neuffer and Frank Wallace, all of Lima. Other members of the grand jury include G. O. Binkley and Robert Meeks, both of Beaverdam; A. E. Place, Spencerville; Frank Winegardner, Harard; Fred Leininger, Delphos; Joseph Lehnkuhl and William Guthrie, both of Lima; A. T. Wainwright, Bluffton; Joseph Forche and C. R. Langstaff, both of Lima; J. L. Underwood, American-Port; and C. L. Patterson, Hume.

CHILD IS BURNED

Concentrated Lye Tipped Onto Arms and Mouth.

Harold Kelly, fifteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Kelly, 803 Franklin-ave., was burned about the arms and mouth Monday morning, when the child pulled a can of concentrated lye from the table upon its body.

Mrs. Kelly was busy about the washing. The little child reached for the lye, having its mouth open at the time as it stood on tip-toe to obtain the can. A quantity of lye was deposited in the mouth. Physicians are as yet undecided whether the child swallowed a part of the substance.

The left arm and elbow were mainly affected. Information from the hospital at a late hour Monday afternoon was to the effect the child will probably recover.

The father of the child is a grocer at 901 S. Main-st.

BURKE ON TRIAL

Faces Charge of Murdering Detectives at Toledo.

TOLEDO. — (By Associated Press). — The trial of John Burke, alias Mac-Cure, charged with the first degree murder of New York Central Railway Detectives Louis Schroeder and A. P. Long during a sensational holdup here last January, was begun in Common Pleas Judge Brough's court today.

Long and Schroeder were acting as guards for a New York Central railroad messenger who was carrying ticket receipts from the Union Station to a downtown bank when they were attacked by five men. The two detectives were killed and $10,000 stolen. Royce Richardson, colored and Edward Foley have been tried and convicted for the same crime. Richardson was electrocuted and Foley is serving a life sentence in the Ohio penitentiary.

OLD BATTLESHIP'S CAREER ENDED BY AIR BOMBERS

NORFOLK, Va. — A thousand pound bomb ended the career of the old battleship Alabama at 12:15 today. A Martin bomber flying over the old warship anchored off Tangier Island in Chesapeake bay, tore off her mast, destroyed her superstructure and turned her over on her side in shallow water. Six other planes almost simultaneously rained one thousand and two thousand pound bombs on the hulk as she went down. Four hit the vessel as she tumbled over and the remainder landed in the water within twenty to thirty feet.

There are 15,000 fewer postoffices in the United States today than there were 20 years ago.

DOCTORS CALLED BEST JURORS

Judge Declares Knowledge of Medicine Needed.

MOST CROOKS ARE ABNORMAL

Believes Physicians Will Handle Future Lawbreakers.

By H. T. HOPKINS

PORTLAND, Ore. — (International News Service). — What professional man makes the best jurist?

"A lawyer," might be expected to be the usual response.

But that isn't the way George Rossman answers that question. Here's his answer.

"A doctor."

No, Rossman isn't a doctor; he's municipal judge of Portland, and before he went on the bench he was a lawyer.

But his experience as a jurist has convinced him that a knowledge of medicine is more important in dispensing justice than in an acquaintance with Blackstone.

Four-fifths of the law breakers who appear in police court are deficient, mentally or physically, according to Rossman, and should be treated by physicians instead of being thrown in jail.

"The people who fall into the hands of the law," he said, "are abnormal people. They cannot live as their fellows. They steal. They use dope. They are quarrelsome. They drink, fight with their neighbors or allow their vile passions to rule them."

"These people are subjects for physicians rather than judges. Penalizing these unfortunate by locking them in jail does little good. It has a deterrent effect on the rest of society. But it accomplishes no reform in the prisoner."

"Make the woman dope fiend who came into my court. An examination showed she was suffering with a cancer and took dope to deaden the pain. A term in jail would not cure her cancer. Medical science might do something for her, but statutes and ordinances would not."

"I do not believe in the present slip-shod method of administering justice. A judge should not be required to spend all of his time listening to rules of evidence, to precedents and recent decisions."

"If I had my way I'd never send a man to jail until I had made a thorough examination of his case. I'd insist on a mental and physical examination of the prisoner. I would like to be a physician myself in order that I could discover the reason why the prisoner could not live like his fellow man."

"I believe the time is coming when the physician, and not the judge and jury, will deal with the law-breaker."

EIGHT KILLED IN IRISH BATTLE

Serious Fighting Again Breaks
Out In Belfast.

70 PERSONS ARE WOUNDED

Lloyd George Asked to Hasten
Answer to Note.

BELFAST — (By United Press) — Fresh rioting occurred here shortly before noon today and several more persons were seriously wounded.

Crown forces which had temporarily stopped the sectarian warfare of early morning were again called out in armored cars and forced to pour machine gun fire into the opposing mobs.

Fierce, sporadic fighting continued through the night. Volleys of revolver and rifle fire poured down York-st. by opposing gunmen shortly after midnight, brought out the armored cars and repeated bursts of machine gun fire cleared the battle area of rioters. No sooner had the crown forces left the scene than the mobs again came together.

Eight deaths, four resulting from a bomb explosion earlier in the night's fighting and 70 wounded, was the toll of casualties for the week-end. Two young girls and a boy were wounded by rifle fire early today.

Early last night a bomb was thrown into the midst of a Catholic mob which was drawn up opposite a crowd of Unionists in Seaforth-st. It failed to explode and was hurled into the Protestant crowd, where it burst with terrific effect, killing four and wounding at least 57.

APPEAL TO PREMIER
DUBLIN — (By United Press) — With Belfast aflame with bitter sectarian warfare and the truce in the south in the balance, as a result of clashes between crown forces and Sinn Feiners in Cork, Ireland today was believed desperately close to the disaster of renewed hostilities on a general scale.

The government has asked Lloyd George to hasten his answer to the latest note and set a date for a conference to avert this final catastrophe. Charges that British constabulary broke the truce in Cork Sunday were made by Republican liaison officers today.

The Cork city council today forwarded to the Daily Eireann complaints regarding alleged severe treatment accorded interned Sinn Fein prisoners at Spike Island. The latter, after charging that they were kicked and beaten and their huts stripped of furniture and bedding, have gone on strike.

Belfast's troubles were not confined to desperate street fighting, which continued sporadically today, unchecked by the efforts of the crown forces, which used machine gun fire. The general manager and manager of the Castlecomer Killenny coal miners were kidnapped from their homes by naked men last night.

According to latest reports from Gairloch, ministerial views on the proposed text of Lloyd George's reply will be received there by the British premier by Tuesday at the latest.

Correspondents at Gairloch wired here that "the outlook was brighter."

MINSTER MAN PAYS TWO FINES OF $100

WAPAKONETA — Ben Sommers of Jackson-twp was fined twice the same day. Charged with stealing a 55-gallon gasoline tank from the farm of Frank Frierott, he entered a plea of not guilty, but later changed his plea to guilty and was fined $100, by Justice of the Peace Guy Herrmann.

Before Mayor Schneider at Minster, later, Sommers was fined $100 on a charge of stealing a pulley.

24,000 ARE KILLED AT WORK

3,000,000 Injured in American
Industries in Year

(By N. E. A. Service.)

WASHINGTON — Twenty-four-thousand American workmen were killed by industrial accidents last year.

Three million were injured. Of these 3,000 were hurt so severely that they never were able to go back to work.

This means that 80 men were killed every working day last year or ten every hour in an eight-hour day.

Ten thousand were hurt every day, ten of them permanently incapacitated.

These figures are estimates of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor. Actual figures can not be had, for seven states do not report accidents or fatalities and others are slow about reporting.

But the skilled statisticians of the Labor Department who have been studying industrial accidents for years can make a very close estimate just as life insurance statisticians can tell you when you're likely to die.

Here is a table of figures for last year:

Killed in accidents	24,000
Permanently disabled	3,000
Temporarily disabled	3,000,000
Disabled 1 to 14 days	2,000,000
Disabled 15 to 4 weeks	500,000
Disabled more than 4 weeks	600,000
Permanent partial disabilities	63,400
Loss of one eye	5,000
Loss of one hand or arm	2,000
Loss of one foot or leg	1,000
Loss of one finger or part	45,000
Loss of two or more fingers	7,500
All other injuries	3,000

Official figures of earlier years show that steam railways cause more industrial fatalities than any other big industrial group and that fatalities are least frequent in the ore dressing industry.

The industrial hygiene section of the United States Public Health Service is doing its utmost to bring down the appalling total of accidents and fatalities.

2 DEAD, 7 INJURED IN RAIL WRECK

Trains Collide in Tunnel Near Stuebenville.

GAS RETARDS RESCUE WORK

Fireman Sticks to Post to Prevent Explosion.

STUEBENVILLE — (By Associated Press) — Work of clearing up the wreckage of Sunday's wreck in Gould's tunnel, where Pan Handle mail train number eleven crashed into the rear end of a freight train, resulting in the death of two trainmen and injury to seven, was proceeding rapidly this morning and officials were hopeful that thru service over the Pan Handle system could be resumed late today.

One of the two mail train locomotives and the two mail cars which were derailed have been taken from the tunnel and some of the wreckage of the freight cars removed, but the other big locomotive is astride both tracks and it will take hours to right it.

GAS FILLS TUNNEL
Tramways describe the smashup as worst in years on the Pan Handle system. Four wreck crews worked all last night. The men were forced to work in relays owing to the gas which filled the tunnel.

Up to noon, no more bodies had been found in the wreckage and it is believed there were no other victims.

The body of Engineer Michael Birch of the mail train, was shipped to his home in Pittsburgh today and that of Conductor Alfred Schupp of the freight train to Dennison.

FIREMAN DROVES HERO

All of the injured have been sent to their homes.

Reports here this morning were that Ray Markley, Dennison, fireman of train number eleven, who stuck to his engine and put out the fires in the boilers to prevent an explosion, was in a serious condition, having been almost scalped in the crash.

Officials who have been investigating the signal system at Gould's where Engineer Birch received a yellow block instead of a red one, refused to make any statement as to their findings.

BONUS ADOPTION URGED BY DAVIS

Declares Ohio Should Follow
Lead of 16 Other States.

TOLEDO — (By Associated Press) — Governor Harry L. Davis today strongly advocated adoption by Ohio of the soldiers' bonus plan which is to be voted on by the people of the state thru a proposed constitutional amendment at the election on November 8.

Speaking before Ohio American Legion members in convention here, Davis declared Ohio should follow the lead of fifteen other states which have already acted in favor of state bonuses to world war veterans.

Davis also endorsed proposed international disarmament as a safeguard against future wars, but warned against reduction by the United States of its defensive powers until other nations take similar steps.

Any other course, he declared, would defeat its very purpose and directly open the door to war.

He paid a glowing tribute to the women of America and their sacrifices and services during the war.

Perpetuation of the spirit of uncompromising Americanism that manifested itself when the nation rose to defend its institution, was pleaded for by Governor Davis. He praised the American Legion for its vigorous opposition to un-American propaganda and appealed to its members to help in stamping out those preaching doctrines of discontent.

Speaking on the proposed Ohio bonus, Davis pointed out the comparatively small cost at which the plan can be carried out, stating that the expense involved would amount to only about fifty-four cents a year for a period of ten years, for every person in the state.

BLOCKADE TAKEN UP BY LEAGUE

Methods of Its Application Before
Geneva Assembly.

GENEVA — (By Associated Press) — Methods of applying the economic weapon of the league of nations against a country which violates the provisions of the covenant of the league came before the assembly of the league this morning when the blockade committee submitted its report.

The committee found it was impossible for the league to decide beforehand and in detail the various steps of an economic, commercial and financial nature that should be taken in each case. It proposed that the council of the league make recommendations to the members as to a plan for joint action when necessity should arise.

Interruption of diplomatic relations would first be limited to the withdrawal of the heads of the diplomatic missions. The committee held, however, that while such relations might be maintained if prolonged application of economic pressure was necessary, it should progressively be made more stringent.

In the resolutions that were proposed provision was made that certain states might for a certain period be released from the obligation of blockading another country if the conditions were such as would involve especial danger to those states.

AUTOIST HELD UP, ROBBED BY CRIPPLED HIGHWAYMEN

WASHINGTON — The police today are looking for three highwaymen cripples, two on crutches and the other hobbling on a cane, who last night held up Thomas Payne of this city and robbed him of $20, according to Payne's complaint to the police.

Payne told the police he was sitting in his automobile, accompanied by a young woman, on a road about 100 yards from the Walter Reed Army hospital, when at pistol point he was commanded to leave the machine by three men who hobbled across the road with him, two on crutches and the other on a cane, appropriated the $20, and then, ordering him back to the car, threatened to shoot unless he drove away slowly. He described all three as bald and coal-black.

MRS. DELMONT ON STAND TODAY

Prosecution's Star Witness in the Arbuckle Case.

SEMNACHER IS REPUDIATED

Miss Rappe's Manager to Testify
For Defense.

SAN FRANCISCO — (By Associated Press) — Mrs. Bamber Massad Delmont, who swore to the complaint accusing Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle of the murder of Miss Virginia Rappe, was announced as the principal witness who would be called at the comedian's preliminary hearing on that charge in police court here today.

Mrs. Delmont was the companion of Miss Rappe at the party in the Arbuckle suite at the Hotel St. Francis, at which the girl is said to have suffered fatal injury.

SEMNACHER REPUDIATED
The plan called for Mrs. Delmont to take the witness stand after Dr. Arthur Beardslee, physician of the St. Francis, and Al Semnacher of Los Angeles, Miss Rappe's business manager. Semnacher, it was announced last night, would be asked to testify as defense witness. Arbuckle's attorneys, saying that important details had been overlooked in his previous testimony, Semnacher initially was called as a prosecution witness, but the prosecution repudiated him.

Dr. Beardslee attended Miss Rappe after she had been taken ill and, according to District Attorney Matthew Brady, his testimony is considered extremely important to the state as showing that Miss Rappe apparently was injured internally before the first medical treatment was given.

ONLY WANTS TRUTH
Brady said last night:

"We are satisfied with the progress made in the Arbuckle case. I wish to impress upon the public, tho, the fact that we are not trying to 'hound' any man or attempt to force a conviction of a person on any charge. All we are trying to do in this case is to get the truth and punish those responsible for Miss Rappe's death."

Other prosecution witnesses whom Brady expects to have take the stand late today or tomorrow are Miss Alice Blake and Miss Zeh Prevost, who were guests at Arbuckle's party. That every woman

"My stomach was so disordered that I couldn't eat meats or vegetables at all, and even what I did manage to eat disagreed with me. I had blinding headaches and dizzy spells that almost worried the life out of me. My kidneys were disordered, and my back hurt so bad that I just dreaded to undertake any work that caused me to stoop over. My sleep was restless and broken, and mornings I felt as tired as when I went to bed the night before."

"My sister-in-law got me to try Tanlac, and the medicine gave me a splendid appetite, and fixed my stomach up so fine that I could eat anything I wanted without it bothering me. My kidneys no longer worry me, and I can lie down on my back for hours at a time and work on a machine. My sleep is sound and refreshing, and I feel as fine as I did when I was a boy. My wife and children have also gotten splendid results from Tanlac, and there is nothing too good I can say about it. I intend to take some of the medicine this spring as a tonic."

TO AVOID FAILURE

YOU are extremely interested in those who have made a success of life, for they have attained what you want. You study them, try to figure out how they did it, hoping to get a profitable idea for yourself. A good system for getting ahead.

But a psychologist, in analyzing strength, doesn't stop with a study of Sandow. He takes the other extreme also, and studies the defects that keep the weak from becoming strong.

In your way, you are a psychologist, tho you may call a psychological study "getting his number."

So, then, in studying success, do not overlook the failures.

Learn what made them fail and you know what to avoid.

THERE is nothing mysterious about the degree of prosperity and success of any business, whether it's the Standard Oil Company or the owner of a peanut stand in Lima.

A business fails or succeeds by the same processes and for the same reasons that an individual goes up or down.

After all, you are a business organization, with a production department (your work), a purchasing department (your spending) and a sales organization (your ability to sell your services for a high or low price.)

Analyze the reasons why some businesses go into receivers' hands and you have an analysis of reasons for personal failure.

THERE are about 1,800,000 business concerns in our country. In the last decade, failures have averaged 14,152 a year, or less than one in 100.

Bradstreet's credit agency analyzes those failures and finds that in every 1000 failures, lack of success is due as follows:

PERSONAL CAUSES

Lack of Capital	323
Incompetence	325
Fraud	70
Inexperience	64
Neglect	13
Unwise Credits	16
Extravagance	12
Speculation	8

OUTSIDE CAUSES

Business Conditions	114
Failure of others	12
Competition	13

Incompetency heads the list. That shows the value of schooling and experience laboriously and slowly acquired.

Lack of capital comes second as a reason for failure. In most cases, that can be overcome only by patient saving.

Business conditions, third in rank as a failure cause, are beyond the control of any individual. The best we can do is save a reserve fund for the lean years.

SURVIVAL

MANY animals give birth to one more young than the mother can nurse. The surplus individual has to fight the others for his food. That makes him strong. Nature, constantly striving to improve life's fitness to survive, is clever, cunning.

Young men, be thankful for hard knocks in youth. They develop your powers. Luxury and ease are agents of destruction. E. H. Bates, of Huntington, W. Va., will agree. He bought five pampered and pedigreed cats to guard his chicken coop. Rats killed them. A tramp tomcat would have been better.

RIGHT?

A READER who signs himself Paul Pry, sends this letter:

"Public improvements should be paid for by taxing only those who use them. Cost of paving streets should be borne entirely by drivers of autos, trucks and wagons. Why should I pay for pavement in front of my house or elsewhere when I never use it? People who own property shouldn't be taxed to support fire departments. The poor have nothing to be stolen, so the rich should foot the whole bill for police forces."

"Paul Pry" seems converted to the philosophy that you shouldn't pay for a thing you don't get.

Do you agree or disagree with him? Write your views to the editor of The Lima News. Taxes are our biggest problem. Let's turn them inside out and sponge the seams.

YOUTH

WHEN you are discouraged or have the blues, think of the graveyard. In a twinkling, you will brighten up, be glad you are alive at any price.

Life is sweet. Scientists say that man some day will live to an average of at least 150 years. No doubt, they think that is good news. But is it?

Much as you love life, would you care to live to 150? If so, how about 200, 300 or 1,000?

Most old folks, who live beyond 90, go to death with a smile on their lips. They have tasted life in all its forms. Wearied, they yearn for the hereafter.

At what age does the vaudeville show called life become monotonous? Talk it over with grandpa.

YOUTH is life—all of life that is really worth living. Years that follow may be interesting, but they would be dull without the thrills that come from the memories of youth.

Conrad summed it all up in an allegorical story about the sea of life when journey's end is in sight:

"Ah! The good old time—the good old time! Youth and the sea. Glamour and the sea! The good strong sea, the salt, bitter sea, that could whisper to you and roar at you and knock your breath out of you."

"By all that's wonderful, it is the sea, I believe, the sea itself—or is it youth alone? Who can tell? But you here—you all had something out of life: money, love—whatever one gets on shore—and, tell me, wasn't that the best time, that time when we were young at sea; young and had nothing, on the sea that gives nothing except hard knocks—and sometimes a chance to feel your strength?"

A MORNING PRAYER

This will I breathe for my morning prayer;

Give me strength for my round of care,

Let me face what the day may bring

Of hurt, or heartache, unwhimpering.

Let me use my talents the best I can

And come to my children at night—a man.

Which has brightened another's hour of need.

Let me come home with the setting sun

With a smiling face and my task well done

This is my prayer for the morning new:

Grant me strength for what I must do;

Let me rejoice as I go my way

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH US, ANYWAY?

J. Ogden Armour, President of Armour & Co., Tells The Lima News His View.

THE best way to restore national faith and confidence so essential to prosperity is to cease discussing and lamenting the business slump which was the natural aftermath of the war.

Business today is good or bad according to the standard you use in making the comparison. It is bad beside the war-stimulated business of 1918 and 1919, but it is exceedingly good when compared with business abroad and with the business following our own Civil War.

Of course, there is more or less unemployment and this is most unfortunate and a calamity for those who can find no jobs. But the nation as a whole is not unemployed and the 90 per cent or thereabouts of workers who are employed are getting better conditions than have ever been known.

The faith and confidence of the buying public and of business and industrial men are reviving daily, and there may be flares and seasonal slumps the business of the nation is moving steadily ahead toward the point where it will have sufficient to do to warrant the employment of all those who seek employment.

There is no reason to expect that conditions will become ideal in a day or a year, but progress is being made and acceleration will come from purchasing of better business, more confidence, more work, rather than from continued harping on the unanswerable question "What's the matter with business?"

What's the matter with business?"

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well
YOUR KIDNEYS

Pain in the back does not always mean kidney trouble. Yet few people pay any attention to their kidneys until they get a pain in their back. Then they wonder if it's the beginning of "Bright's disease," of which so much is heard and so little known.

Backache as a sign of "Bright's disease" is an untrustworthy one. In many serious cases of this disease, backache is not conspicuous. On the other hand a person may have a severe backache when no kidney trouble is present. Backaches are often due to a condition of the muscles, a condition which plenty of rest will soon mend.

Most of the kidney troubles are painless and the finding of albumin in the urine comes as a distinct surprise to the person examined. Even this finding does not always indicate kidney disease, but is only the first sign that one is not living the right life.

One should not neglect his kidneys until such time as a backache or an insurance examination brings the possibility of approaching troubles. Children may be brought down by fatal kidney disease if they are not cared for properly after attacks of scarlet fever, tonsillitis and even whooping cough, mumps and measles.

Children who have just recovered from one of these diseases should not be allowed to run around with bare feet and bare legs, or play in cold water during colder weather. Chilling of the surface of the body congests the organs, and repeated congestions of the kidneys may lead to serious trouble in such persons as are predisposed to kidney disease.

Among the poorer classes, a life of poverty and wrong living is probably an exciting cause of kidney troubles in adults. Among the well-to-do people, hearty eating and sedentary lives, coupled with business responsibilities and worry, are found the cause of many cases.

When albumin is found in the urine it is a "go-slow" signal.

IN BED EIGHT MONTHS

Cause—Change of Life. How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Got Me Up

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will induce some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may publish this letter."

Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tennessee. Women from forty-five to fifty years of age should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, palpitation of the heart, smothering or fainting spells, or spots before the eyes, and prepare their system for this perfectly natural change by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has helped many, many women through this trying period, just as it did Mrs. Keller.

NOT COMMUNIST, SAYS HARDEN

German Editor Coming To Lecture in America

SEEKS TO "END CLASS WAR"

Denies He Is Out To Spread Propaganda.

(BY S. MILES BOUTON)
BERLIN — N. E. A. Service) — Maximilian Harden, most famous and fearless of German editors, is sailing for America to deliver a series of lectures.

I went to see him at his unpretentious home in Grunewald, a suburb of Berlin, and found him surrounded by books, pamphlets and newspapers — plainly the workshop of a man who hates the duster and broom of the maid servant.

"What sort of reception do you expect in America?" I asked him. "Why," said he, "I don't know. I have heard there is a disposition in certain German-American circles to make things unpleasant for me. But I don't believe they will refuse to give me a chance to express my views."

IDEAS ON COMMUNISM
"But how about Americans in general?" I asked. "Do you think they will be disposed to welcome even a literary Communist?"

"Great heavens, man, I am not a Communist! I know all the German papers of the extreme right regularly call me one, but that is monarchical politics. They take sentences of mine out of their context and place them together to suit their purposes."

"The ideas of the Communists are ideas of the past, not of the future. They might have worked in some primitive community centuries ago, but they are impossible now and in the future."

"As men and women are today, you can accomplish little if you take from them the incentive of personal gain as a result of their labor."

"The Russian Bolsheviks had a wonderful idea and it seemed that in Russia, if anywhere, it might work, because of the character of the people and the primitive stage of their civilization. But there is little chance of any success there."

NO PROPAGANDA
"I want to emphasize that I am not going to America as a propagandist for or against anything. I don't believe Americans are greatly interested in what is past."

"What interests them, as it interests all thinking people today, is what the future has in store. How are we in Europe going to get out of this tangle?"

"I am going to give my ideas on these questions and on the best way of repairing the destruction caused by the war. I shall not lecture solely about Germany."

"I shall consider the whole European question, but Germany is, of course, the central point. Europe cannot recover unless Germany recovers, too. This Germany will do! "But in Germany we must stop our incessant strife between classes and factions, and all Europe must do the same."

SUIT TO DISSOLVE PARTNERSHIP

A. M. Harrod Claims He Was Threatened by A. C. Patterson.

Dissolution of a partnership formed for the purpose of raising stock and farming is asked by Albert M. Harrod, Auglaize-twp farmer, in a suit filed against A. C. Patterson, in common pleas court, Monday.

The two formed a partnership in February, 1921, to engage in farming and the raising of stock. They purchased necessary chattels and conducted the business upon the Harrod farm. Each contributed one-half of the funds and each was to share equally the profits.

Instead, the petition relates, Patterson prevents Harrod from taking part in the work of the partnership and threatened him with violence if he attempted to do so, Harrod charges.

Harrod says that Patterson has sold and is still selling the property of the partnership and has diverted the money to his own use, instead of paying the partnership indebtedness.

The petition states the two can no longer continue in business under the assumed management of Patterson and that such continuance would result in loss to Harrod. He asserts he is unable to convert the assets into money or pay the partnership indebtedness, on account of threatened violence. A receiver to sell the property and a request for an accounting of profits from Patterson, is sought.

Honest Advertising.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable medicinal properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher honestly advertised, honestly placed before the public and from which he honestly expects to receive his reward.

CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your crying child anything but a medicine especially prepared for infants and children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

SUSIE SMART SAYS

Dear Miss Smart

I AM a young woman engaged to be married soon. I am anxious to be married and yet I'm not. I love my fiancé and all, but when I see so many of my friends unhappy during their married life, I wonder if every marriage turns out that way. Is there something we can do to make our marriage different from others and to be happy all the time?

ANXIOUSLY WAITING

Why feel this way? You are making yourself very unhappy and miserable. All marriages are not unhappy. Don't feel that way! It is only the unhappy and unfortunate marriages, of which we hear. These happy marriages are not discussed so extensively.

There will be many things about your marriage which will be just the same as other marriages. Whether or not your marriage will be successful will be disclosed by the way you meet the many little almost trivial matters which will arise. That is where the difference lies.

Many young wives feel that marriage is going to be simply "one bad of roses." They seem to completely ignore the fact that there are many responsibilities which they must undertake and that, too, must do their share in making their married life pleasant and enjoyable. The husband is not to be excused in this. He also must be considerate and thoughtful and fulfill his duties as a good husband.

Don't permit yourself to think that your marriage will be a failure simply because some of your friends have found theirs so. Much of your future happiness lies in your hands. If you value it you will do everything in your power to make it all you have ever hoped it might be.

TO "TWO WILY WAMPS"

Doubtless your condition must be most distressing. As said, however, that onions are very good for one, perhaps it would be best to avoid seeking revenge from two such desperate characters.

LADY RHONDDA SOLVES PROBLEM OF ENGLAND'S TWO MILLION SPINSTERS

LADY RHONDDA IS A SPINSTER IN DISGUISE. SHE WAS ARRESTED AND JAILLED AS A SUFFRAGET

Great Britain's Biggest Business Woman Demands Fullest Business Equality.

(By MILTON BRONNER)

LONDON — The biggest business woman in Great Britain, Viscountess Rhonda, has the solution for the problem confronting England's 2,000,000 spinsters. In a line it's: "Equal pay for equal work."

Only by giving these women the fullest equality with men in business, says Lady Rhonda, can the nation meet the situation precipitated by the war, which left the country with 2,000,000 more women than men — women without any hope of marriage.

Lady Rhonda is a director in 36 corporations and entirely in control of a good many — steel, iron, coal and steamship concerns.

But these are only part of her interests.

When the women of Great Britain were invited to the vote, she was one of the militants who led the campaigns and were arrested and jailed.

As a real confidante of her father, who at that time was simply D. A. Thomas, she accompanied him on an important war mission to America. They were on Lusitania when it was sunk by the Germans, and both had a miraculous escape from death.

She wields an able pen whose force is often felt in the feminist journal, "Time and Tide," and she is now engaged on a biography of her late father.

SUFFRAGES OF WOMEN

"Unless these 2,000,000 women without a chance to wed, want to sponge on others, they must go out to earn their own livelihood," said Lady Rhonda.

"The woman who has the brains and the ability must have just as good a chance as a man and must have just as fat a check in her pay envelope."

"Even where a woman has as much ability as a man, or even more, she is handicapped today by old customs and prejudices."

"This will change radically when big business men treat their own daughters as they do their sons."

"When men train their daughters to share business with them and to carry it on after their retirement or death, a new era will have begun for women."

"That is how I got into business. I got to know all the ins and outs of the business. I went everywhere with him. The result was, when he died I didn't have to entrust my affairs to someone else. I was ready to carry on."

USING THE VOTE

"People often say," said Lady Rhonda, "that women of Great Britain have done very little with the vote now that they have got it. Of course, that is sheer foolishness. For a long time we have been occupied intensively with wartime and reconstruction problems. But women will make their influence and their power felt in Britain, in America, wherever they have the vote."

"You may talk about your workers' international and your Socialists' international, but the truest international I know of is the universal solidarity of civilized women-kind concerning certain things."

"These primarily deal with questions that have to do with children and especially their protection. Naturally, you will find us always insisting upon newer and more stringent and sweeping laws for the protection of children."

ENGLAND'S PROBLEMS

"Every nation has its own problems. Over here a group of us are fighting for what we call our program of six points:—

"FIRST — More stringent laws relating to assault upon little girls."

"SECOND — A system of pensions for poor widows left with young children."

"THIRD — A change in the laws dealing with the unmarried mother and her child, to make the father share the responsibility."

"FOURTH — Laws giving the mother as well as the father a chance at the guardianship of infants."

"FIFTH — Equality of pay for men and women teachers."

"SIXTH — Equality of pay and opportunity for men and women in our civil service."

HEAD DRESSES THAT ENHANCE EVENING COSTUMES

(By MARION HALE)

NEW YORK — No use trying to trace the influence of the new head dresses for women.

The most ornate, the most Oriental, the most barbaric, well — the most anything superlative, characterizes the newest imported splendors, to perfect the evening costumes of my lady.

Jewels and feathers alone are no longer enough. Combinations astounding in their gorgeousness are the mode.

One evening barette shows a band of red velvet studded with diamond-encircled rubies, while a larger ornament of the same stones holds a drooping red willow plume in place.

The barette has still another piece extending over the top of the hair.

These evening head dresses, of course, come in all colors from jade-green to black.

A commanding evening hair ornament of black, with velvet bandeau across the front, has a jeweled ornament holding an upstanding ostrich tip. This feather is heavily encrusted in designs, with brilliants.

The chaste Greek fillet is still good, one modification showing beautiful clusters of berries. Span-fish combs, not to be cast aside by the newer imports, are shown in all sizes and conditions. One exquisite comb is of finely wrought silver and brilliants.

FROM LORD & TAYLOR

LETTERS TO LOVERS

By WINONA WILCOX

(By WINONA WILCOX)

BROKEN engagements, like divorces, have increased since the war.

"I was engaged five years. Seems absurd, I suppose, to a person of sense. It's absurd to me, now I've broken with the man. Many times I asked him why we couldn't marry. The only answer I ever had was 'Because!' Then followed extravagant demonstrations of his devotion."

"I wish you would write something good and strong about men who are too selfish to marry. I'm convinced it would do some of them a world of good. Foolish Virgin!"

I am convinced that no program-making suit would be influenced one bit by the printed word.

Character is not made in a day and it cannot be made over by a single sermon. But it may be read in a day, and it does seem that the girl who stays engaged for five years ought to take a little time off in which to look for flaws in the man of her trust.

"What kind of a man is this who swears that he loves me but is never ready for our wedding?" is surely a reasonable question.

Most unfortunately (from a sympathetic view point), I have a large assortment of letters from girls who have dragged thru long engagements to a disastrous conclusion. One girl thus condenses her hurt:

"My engagement was broken after four happy years and I am miserable. I have wasted the best years of my life. I worried for months before ending the affair, and I have lost flesh, and my good looks, and energy and ambition. I have been humiliated before my friends, and I have wasted hundreds of dollars on a trousseau I shall never need."

"I know I am doomed to be an old maid. The man was utterly selfish."

"And he was judging from the remainder of her long letter."

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You will have the frozen dish which you serve between the meat and salad course of your formal dinner, put in the cups or glasses in the kitchen or pantry and brought to the table on a dessert plate on which a teaspoon has been placed.

You will have the salad which you serve with the game or meat course, brought to the table in a bowl and allow each guest to serve himself. Whether or not independent plates for the salad are put at the right of each service is a matter for your own decision. After the bowl has been passed each guest, it should be removed from the table.

You will make the first move to leave when you have been invited to dine with your fiancé, your brother, your husband or man friend. It is always the woman's privilege to set the time of departure.

BREAD CRUMBS

Don't let bread crumbs accumulate in your bread box. Clean it out every day and put back only that which is fit for table use. Put the stale bread in a small muslin bag which you have made for the purpose and with a wooden mallet pound it until it is fine. Then put it in a wooden box or jar to keep for use when you need bread crumbs. This saves spending time in the midst of cooking to make bread crumbs and eliminates bread waste.

WHEN BABY EATS

By all means get a feeding spoon for baby as soon as he can sit up and hold one. You'll be surprised at how soon he'll begin to help himself and thus help his busy mother.

WITH VEAL LOAF

When you have veal loaf serve either pickled peaches or spiced crabapples with it. The combination is fine.

STOCKINGS

Their stockings wear out so quickly during school days, so why not cover the heels and toes with close even darning, before they are worn at all? You'll find it will make the stockings last much longer.

The Fall Blouse

In the Tailored Mode

With the coming of the vogue for smart skirts comes also the necessity of the tailored blouse, as smartly in keeping with the skirt. For the woman we are showing an extensive line of chic tailored blouses in Pussy Willow silks, crepe de chine and a few others of lesser popularity, that range in price from $4.95 upwards. And you will consider the price very low when you see the fine workmanship of the waists, their styles and colorings.

For school, for business, for shopping, for a hundred and one occasions, the smart little blouse pictured above with its Bramley collar and cuffs, its frilled front, and its long sleeves in the newest and most becoming garment. The majority of them are made in the popular crepe de chine or Pussy Willow, and a few of other silks. A selection shows the tucked front—and this blouse comes at a slightly higher price. Prices are from $4.95 upwards.

BRAMLEY SETS

In Linene,—Pique,—Linen at $1.00,—$1.50,—$1.88

The smartest thing for sweaters, blouses, or one piece dresses, for girls and young women. We are showing an extensive selection of pique, with Irish lace, and pique with Fillet, Irish linen with Fillet, Linene with Irish lace, and linene with Fillet. The prices are extremely reasonable as the sets are very well made. Come in and see them.

MARKET AT ELIZABETH STREET

Bluem's

IN THE NEW RETAIL DISTRICT

A SCOUT FOR VIRGINIA

By HUGH PEINDEKTER

We camped at the dusk that night, and I was too exhausted to follow more than a few mouthfuls of food before falling asleep. Before sunrise we were up and hurrying through the gray mists reversing the route Cousin and I had followed on traveling to the valley.

At last we came to the outskirts of an Indian camp, which I estimated to be within less than half a mile of the Howard's creek settlement.

I was led into the camp and my cord made fast to a tree. There was no air of triumph about the place. A warrior reclining on a pile of boughs and nursing a shattered shoulder suggested a futile attack on the cabins.

Dale was tied to a tree with sufficient length of cord to permit him to lie down. When he met my gaze he did not seem to recognize me at first. Then he muttered:

"You, too!"

From the direction of the settlement came the scream of a panther. Black Hoof gave an order, and a score of men glided into the forest. To me he quickly said:

"There was a panther's whelp in the little valley we did not get. The Shawnees would dance his scalp ahead of all the hair growing in any of these valleys. He rode to the settlement ahead of me. We shall get him."

He turned and walked over to Dale. At almost the same moment Patricia and Shelby Cousin's sister entered this camp. I forgot the cord and eagerly started to join her.

Ward snarled like an animal and jerked on the cord and pulled me violently back. Patricia glanced in our direction, and I saw her hand fly to her heart and she stared at me. Black Hoof noticed this bit of drama, and wheeling about, he harshly commanded:

"Let Red Arrow remember I am chief. If the white man would talk to the white woman do not stop him. See that his hands are well tied and hobbles on his legs."

An Indian slipped the cord from the tree and with it trailing behind me I hurried to the girl. She dropped on a log, her face a white mask of terror. Cousin's sister remained a few paces behind her. Her face was expressionless, but she did not remove her gaze from Patricia.

"At least they have not tied you," I said.

"I go and come as I will," was the listless answer.

"You mean you are free to go and come unwatched?" I demanded.

"She nodded her head."

"Then why haven't you tried to make the settlement?" I asked.

"Listen. Shelby Cousin is near. The Indians can't afford the time it will take to capture the place. Walk along into the woods. Go due east. By God's grace I believe you can make it."

"Bastard, you forget," she sorrowfully reproached. "You forget my father is here."

The Shawnees knew she would never leave her father, and that she lacked the border woman's daring initiative so necessary in any attempt to free him. Black Hoof glided to my side, took me by the arm and led me toward Dale.

"Oh, my God, Morris!" Dale groaned.

"The Pack-Horse-Man can save his life," sentimentally began Black Hoof.

"My daughter?" gasped Dale, rising on his knees.

Black Hoof glowered at the miserable man ferociously and said:

"You will go to the edge of the clearing with my warriors. You will speak to the settlers and tell them they shall save their lives if they put down their guns. After they put down their guns you and your daughter shall go free."

The unhappy man sank, feebly moaning:

"No! No! Not that! The blood of the Granville—the little children—is on me. Kill me, but I'll lead no more into your trap."

These were brave words, even if brokenly voiced. But Black Hoof heard with grim amusement in his small black eyes.

"Ho! You fat white man who always planned to cheat the Indians in a trade. You fill your ears against Cataheassa's words? Ho! You will do as Cataheassa says, or you will be tied to a tree and your daughter shall be put to the torture before your eyes. It must be before the sun goes down."

With that he dragged me back to my tree.

Black Hoof departed. In his place stood Ward, staring at me curiously.

Patricia Dale passed quite close to us, a gourd of water in her hand. She was carrying it to her father. Ward exclaimed in English—

"What a woman!"

Turning to me he hoarsely said:

"I was born white. It's her blood that calls me. When I saw her in Salem I said I would have her for my squaw if I could get her and her fool of a father into the mountains."

My mental paralysis lifted.

"I am promised to you?" I asked.

"I am to have any two prisoners to do with as I like," he answered.

"Then you had better remind your chief of his promise," I warned.

"He says he will torture the girl before her father's eyes if the father does not help betray the settlers."

Ward left me and strode up to the chief. They talked rapidly, and I could read from Ward's mien that he was very angry. When he returned to me he was in a rare rage.

"Cataheassa dodges by saying you and the trader are the two prisoners I must take. He says he will burn the girl unless the trader makes the talk as told."

The time had come for Black Hoof to try Dale as a decoy. There remained a good hour of light. As they started to lead her father into the woods Patricia attempted to follow him, and Black Hoof pushed her back. Cousin's sister spoke up saying:

"I will keep her."

The warriors disappeared in the direction of the settlement. The two women left the camp on the opposite side.

There are only fragments of recollections covering that black period of waiting. Coherent memory resumes—with the noise the warriors made in returning to the camp. Black Hoof walked ahead. Close behind him came two warriors dragging Dale.

Patricia was leaning on lost sister's arm, and there was a lump on her forehead as she had been struck most brutally. Dale was roughly thrown to the ground. Several men began trimming the branches from a stout sapling. Others became busy searching the fallen timber for dry wood.

I waited and at last Ward's race heritage compelled him to talk, and he commenced:

"The old man was scared into doing what the chief told him to do. He would not at first, and the men were sent to bring the girl along. Then he went to the clearing and began his talk. The girl heard his words. She broke away and ran into sight of the cabins and screaming for them not to listen; that it was a trap. Black Hoof struck her with the flat of his axe. Now he swears he'll roast the fool."

He walked to where the warriors were collecting small fuel from between the fallen trees. One of them hauled a hollow maple log out of the debris and threw it one side as being too heavy for a quick fire. Ward halted and rested a foot on it and bowed his head. Next he began tapping it with his tomahawk. His actions attracted the attention of the men, and Black Hoof asked:

"What does Red Arrow think is in the log? A snake?"

Ward started the savages by curtly replying:

"He sees a white man's cannon in the log. The fort holds all the setters on the creek. Its walls are stout. If they can be broken down the Shawnees will take many scalps and prisoners."

Black Hoof's eyes glittered.

"Have you medicine to make it into a cannon?" he asked.

"I have big medicine. Before it will work for me I must be given the white squaw. If the medicine-cannon does not give the settlers into our hands still the white squaw must be mine to do with as I will."

Black Hoof at last said:

"Cataheassa gives the white woman to the Red Arrow. Tell your medicine to make the big gun shoot."

Ward was exultant. He explained:

"It must be bound tight with much rawhide. Small stones must be pecked tight in the butt-end. I will make a hole for the priming. Then we will draw it to the clearing and load it with powder and rocks."

The wooden tube was reinforced under Ward's directions.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE DREAM DRESS

Cherry in the meantime was busily building up her little love hopes again. She spent a good deal of time with Miss Laura. Gaining strength of purpose and wisdom from her, as well as keeping happy in her sunshine presence. Together they made a most adorable nest for Cherry to wear when her Ned returned. And long hours were passed in planning it, and in laughing over the booby-boo that had so upset the young wife's heart.

"Ned writes me the most beautiful letters, Miss Laura," she confided one day at the end of the first week of his absence. "Just like he used to do when we were engaged. I feel so happy, I can't tell you," and she kissed the last letter over and over again.

"I've no doubt that before long you two will be flying off for a second honeymoon somewhere. You'll have to. It's the only thing to do after one of those blessedly wonderful re-unions. Leave everyone far behind and become lovers all over again. I know. We did it once and after the second baby too," and here Miss Laura laughed softly to herself.

"Oh, do you think so? How more than perfect that would be!" breathed Cherry ecstatically. "To have my own Neddy boy all to myself again, like I used to. To dream beside the brook at Honeybrook Hill. And forget that there are such things as work and ambition or a world behind us. I think I should die of joy."

Really and truly. And people have died of such joy, I know."

"You'll do nothing of the kind, you baby, you. You'll live again. That's what second honeymoons do for true lovers. And you'll come back here and make everyone envious of the light shining in your pretty eyes. And the happiness bubbling on your lips. We'll all want to be loved all over again," and Miss Laura shook with laughter.

"Wait till he sees you in this dress. Just matches your cheeks, as they are now, Cherry. I'll wager he'll suggest the honeymoon right away. I can just imagine how the hours are crawling for him, way off there in Chicago."

"I do hope so. I can hardly wait to see him. So maybe he feels the same as I do. And in this letter he tells me all this and much more besides," said Cherry.

"Now then stand up, young lady, and let me fit the dress properly, so that you'll be the admired of admirers when your bridegroom comes," and Miss Laura slipped the rose silk dress over Cherry's head deftly. The next few minutes were spent in planning and patting the folds and tucks into place. It was a dream dress for fair. Even Cherry could not help but see that she looked wholly lovely in it.

"I suppose that Arline will come back here with heaps of dresses," she began sadly, "and with her money you know what she can buy."

"Yes, and I know that with a"

her clothes she couldn't get Ned before. And as for her money, well, I heard on good authority that it was just the fact that she had it that made Ned shy off, always. He didn't like the idea of being bought by a rich girl. And he knew what it would mean when once the first glamor was

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multivitamin coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The latter rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multivitamin coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

The War on Film

That dingy film on teeth

Dental science nowadays is conducting a war on film. It means a new dental era. The object is whiter teeth, cleaner teeth and safer.

Millions of people have already benefited. And leading dentists everywhere are urging this new way on others.

This is to offer a pleasant test. To bring you the results for awhile. Then to let you decide if you want them every day.

Film mars your looks

Film is that viscous coat you feel, ever-present, ever-forming. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

This film absorbs stains, so it clouds the teeth's beauty. It often forms the basis of thin, dingy coats. And coated teeth don't glisten.

The great tooth wrecker

But film does more. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Other essential helps

Modern research has revealed other needs. Ordinary diet is often rich in starch and deficient in fruit acids. A tooth paste should twice daily do what fruit acids do. It should stimulate Nature's teeth-protecting agents in the mouth.

Repsodent does that. It multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. It multiplies

Thus film causes most tooth troubles. Despite the tooth brush, those troubles have been constantly increasing, until very few escape. The ordinary dentifrice does not effectively combat film, so much has been left intact.

That is the situation which dental research has in late years sought to remedy.

Two efficient methods

Two efficient methods have been found. Able authorities have proved them. A great number of dentists have watched the results for years.

Now these methods are combined in a tooth paste called Repsodent, for daily use at home. Its effects are quick and delightful. A week's use is usually convincing.

Giants Leading Pirates Now By 18 Point Margin

Eight hits in two days by Left Fielder Emil (Irish) Meusel of the Giants was one reason why his team had an eighteen point margin over Pittsburgh in the National League today.

He drove home four runs with two doubles against St. Louis yesterday and clinched the game for the centerfielder.

Meusel made two other hits, while on the day before he hit safely four times in as many trips to the plate. Pittsburgh did not play yesterday.

A MERRY SCRAMBLE
A merry battle for this place in the American League has developed between St. Louis and Washington.

The Browns held the berth today but were only three points ahead of the Senators, who yesterday defeated Detroit for their seventh straight victory. Second baseman Harris of Washington was a busy ball player.

He made three hits in four times at bat, stole a base and in the field made four put-outs and three and three assists.

After glory of the same club had a perfect batting average with three hits, two of them triples.

Thomas, a recruit outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, showed his older team mates a few tricks in winning ball games. In the first game of a double header with Boston, he drove home the winning runs with a single and in the second contest his double in the final inning started a batting rally that won the battle. Each game went 12 innings.

LOCAL TEAM WINS DOUBLE HEADER; CINCH SERIES

(By FRANKLIN DOAN)

A CROWD estimated at 2,500 fans—breaking all records—jammed into the Murphy-st ball park Sunday afternoon to see the Lima Independents defeat St. Marys in two games, winning the series between the two teams.

The first game ended with a score of 3 to 0; the second game 11 to 0.

Consistent hitting and perfect fielding featured both games. Both Berry and Main, the local hurlers, pitched five games. Berry, who pitched fine games. Berry, who pitched four hits. Only two of these hits were bunched, but they were of no avail. The sensation of the day was the no-hit, no-run game pitched by Main.

The St. Marys boys could get no where around his offerings. There were but three men that got on bases. Noels, who pitched for the Saints did good work in the first game but errors on the part of his teammates proved a great handicap. In the second game he was very ineffective and retired in the second inning.

Lima started out in the first game by rolling a goose-egg. In the second they started their fireworks. Seward, first man up, singled, stole second and stroled home on Ruse's hit. This was the first score for Lima and in fact the last one until the eighth inning. From the time that Lima scored in the second frame until they again scored in the eighth inning it was a game of baseball that is a credit for any team to play.

The crowd of 2,500 fans were kept excited and interested from the first inning until Clark put out Kishler at third base for the last out of the game. With a minute, we mustn't forget to tell you how Lima piled their score higher in the eighth inning. Dugan, local second sacker, singled and went to second on Hunter's error. Clark got to first on the same play. Harris then croaked out a two bagger, scoring both Dugan and Clark.

In the second game the Limaites started out early by scoring four runs in the first inning. Dugan first batted, singled and went to second on Clark's sacrifice hit. Clark drew a two out due to first and Harris and Seward did the same thing. Noels then uncorked a wild heave sending Dugan home. Arvey singled, scoring Clark and Seward. Harris sauntered home on another wild pitch. The game from then on was Lima's entirely, except in the third inning when Snam the visiting catcher tried to tag out Ruse, Lima receiver, nabbed him at the plate. Lima made two more runs in the third inning on two hits and three stolen bases. In the fourth inning another quartet of runs were added to the Lima side of the score sheet. Five hits and a brace of stolen bases was the course of this sudden influx of runs.

Lima didn't score any more until the sixth inning when a double and two singles caused another pair of local spikes to cut the plate. Main, Lima's elongated twirler was tearing the St. Marys boys down with out a bludge while his teammates were making so many runs.

The second game was cut down from nine innings to seven innings because of impending darkness. All of Lima's players played brilliant games both in the field and at bat. Seward and Dugan had good days with the hickory, each making four hits. Ruse, Lima receiver, handled 21 chances without an error. Ruse continued his good work of cutting off the opposing base runners at the different bases. In the last seven games he has played in Lima only five base-runners have been able to steal on him.

Pitchers In Today's Big Battle

Carl Mays and Coveleskie Slated to Hurl In Indian-Yank Crucial Game

Carl Mays (Left) and Stanley Coveleskie (Right).

ON the hopes of these two men, thousands of fans Monday are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the crucial New York-Cleveland game, which will have a lot to do with fixing the dope on who's got the best chance at the American League pennant.

Mays, while with the Red Sox, went thru two of the big time performances, while Coveleskie earned himself the name of "Iron Man" in 1920 when he won all three of his starts in the Cleveland-Brooklyn games.

Both men are near the top among league pitchers. "Covey" is always cool and deliberate and master of the moist pill in a pinch, while Mays at times becomes excitable and wild.

DELIVERY FAMOUS
Mays' underhand delivery is the most peculiar in the big leagues. He's famous for his submarine ball. It was while batting against Mays that Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, was beaned and killed in 1920.

Mays was the most talked of man in baseball when he quit the Red Sox after an argument and went to the Yanks. He pitched there only with the aid of an injunction gotten out by the New York club against Ban Johnson, American League head, who tried to prevent the transfer from leaving.

Mays made his first world series appearance in 1915 with Boston. The score was 6 to 5 Boston; Brooklyn was batting, with one out and the bases flooded. Mays was called upon to go in and pitch, a job for a vet. But he reared the side score. Few pitchers have such a warm introduction into any world series.

COVEY NO YOUTH
Coveleskie is no youth. He was 31 last July.

He started his diamond career 14 years ago in the town of Shamokin, Pa., where he was born.

After knocking around in the minors for some time he went to the Pacific coast and spent five years with the Spokane and Portland clubs.

While with Spokane he picked

LUBITSCH GREATLY OVERSHADOWS POLA NEGRI

(By ESTHER WAGNER.)

ANOTHER foreign film, "One Arabian Night," has been launched in America. The National Board of Review considered it such a good picture that it was selected as the first "exceptional" film of the 1921-1922 season. And a whole theater-full of critics was invited to an advance showing to pass judgment upon it.

Questionnaires were distributed. Complete returns are not in, but it can be said that "One Arabian Night" is a fitting successor to "Passion" and "Deception," its German predecessors.

Pola Negri is the star. She is so advertised, while Ernest Lubitsch's name appears in smaller type as the director as well as the interpreter of the role of the hunchback clown. Which is probably the picture's only fault.

Lubitsch, not Negri, really is the star. She is the lithe, alluring dancer, who captivates all Bagdad, as an Oriental vampire she is all that one could expect, and she is extremely easy to look-at. She dances in a most thrilling way and she wears the same kind of costumes.

But it remains for Lubitsch to do the best acting. It is a most difficult role and his characterization of the crippled clown, madly in love with the desert-bred dancer who laughs at him and smiles her way into the hearts of everybody from the mighty Sheik down, is a piece of work you will not soon forget.

You may be a Pola Negri fan, but you will give Lubitsch the most praise. Especially when you stop to consider that besides enacting the most important male role he also directs the entire picture.

"One Arabian Night" also has another foremost German movie figure in Paul Wegener. Lubitsch produced "Passion," and it was Wegener who produced "The Golem." In this picture Wegener, who aids Lubitsch as director, plays the part of the Sheik. The settings are remarkable, pronounced a triumph of Oriental representation. The picture is picturesque, and spectacular enough—but it is more of a drama than a spectacle.

It is the story of the romance of Zuleika, the Sheik's favorite wife, with a merchant. And of the Sheik's ascension for the desert dancer, who comes to Bagdad with the strolling players, of whom the hunchback clown is one. As the Sheik tides of Zuleika, who meanwhile, had tided him, the itinerant dancer is loved of only by the Sheik but by his son and also by the clown.

The dancer—Pola Negri—is installed in the harem. But she keeps nipping the son and the wrathful Sheik kills her and the son. And it is just about to slay the merchant, who has been smuggled into the harem to meet Zuleika, when the clown, climbing the wall, enters and kills the Sheik—this being vengeance for the death of the dancer. The clown then goes to the merchant and also to the dancer's previous advances. There is rather a superabundance of death in the picture. But it has moments of comedy, and its is highly dramatic and colorful.

Cecil De Mille Makes a Hit

Y this time, you're all familiar with the wonderful cast to be seen in "The Affairs of Anatol." And let me tell you right here at everything about the picture is just as much class as the cast, ever there was a de luxe picture, is it. Where the money came from to produce it, I can't tell you. The famous DeMille beauty orus romp with glad abandon in a farce comedy that bears the name of Arthur Anitzler, although one who has reverence for this nous dramatist will probably be ecked. However, the story was rely suggested by the Snitzler e.

There's not a moment of bad act- unless you happen to find Agnes res a bit unconvincing. The stag- is immense; the costuming most- ous, the scenery something to- am about and the photography- quintessence of photographic art. The story is of a young married n (Wallie Reid) who yearns to p others—mostly those who are- ity and of the opposite gender. s Gloria Swanson, as his wife, ek and beautiful, understands him- ter than he thinks she does and- the end is rewarded as she should

Those about whom his affairs re- are Wanda Hawley, a jazz- y, whom he used to go to school- h, but who has changed—Ah, r she has changed! Agnes Ayres- a farmer's wife, whom she saves- m a watery grave and who in turn- ls his pocketbook to help her- and, and Bebe Daniels as the- posely wickedest woman in New- k, who borrows a large sum of- ey from him to pay the surgeon who operates on her husband. Miss Daniels does some good acting. Wallace Reid as Anatol is supreme in the art of making love and makes a splendid Prince Charming. In fact each and everyone of the players is, beside being famous, decidedly well cast. The direction is clever, in that you are kept on your mental tiptoes for something scandalous that never happens. You just get your eye to the keyhole, as it were, and the lights go out!

Magician at the Orpheum

THE management of the Orpheum theatre take great pleasure in offering the latest and most wonderful attraction of its kind now touring America, when Richards, "The Wizard," brings his big show of a thousand wonders here for seven nights starting tonight as press and public from coast to coast in the largest cities claim Richards is the greatest magician of the present day, for not only is he a great artist, but he has surrounded himself with a big production, which, with its lav- ish outlay of money in scenery, cost- ume and elaborate effects, rivals many of the best three dollar Opera- and musical attractions.

Richards brings to the American theatre covers many remarkable new wonders that he gathered from re- mote parts of the far Orient on his tour of the world, and so amazing are many of these weird effects that our leading scientists, doctors and psychologists claim much of it sur- passes human understanding. Em- bellished with beautiful scenic and lighting effects, this will constitute one of the leading theatrical events of the season.

"The Old Nest" A PICTURE that is marvelously well acted and touching is "The Old Nest," by Rupert Hughes, which opened a five-day en- gagement on Sunday at the Regent theatre. It is all-wool and seven reels long.

The somewhat flippant Mr. Hughes has demonstrated, in "The Old Nest," that he has a heart of gold. Drawn from life itself, it is singularly undramatic and clear, telling the story of an American

SHORT SHAVINGS

George Vicary, the old Roman of them all, became enthusiastic when the man at whose house he was visiting recently spoke of having a little nocturne before dinner. "I thought it was something to drink," says George. "I didn't know it was just a time on the piano."

Don Kirwan, the movie theatre magnate, entertaining a young woman at dinner said: "That piece the orchestra is playing seems familiar. I ought to know what it is out of, but I don't."

"I know what it's out of," said his guest. "It's out of time."

Jobey Kaufman of Elks and Steel fame went to Toledo.

He arrived late at his hotel and was soon asleep. Then he was awakened by a telephone call from the hotel office. They were sending up a telegram. It turned out to be a telegram which had been waiting there for him ever since his previous trip to Toledo.

Harry Moulton, the manufacturer and sportsman reports he had good luck on his duck hunting trip to Sandusky.

"When I fell into the swamp," he says, "a man was right there with a boat hook to fish me out."
